Stuart Barrow Occupational Therapist

“As an Occupational Therapist I am always on the lookout for products that will make the life of my clients easier and improve their independence. The Après Body Dryer is one such product. Whether used alone or with a towel, the individual who needs a good dry all over can prevent sores and pressure areas by being dried by the dryer whilst remaining within the shower area.

Often cubicles and wet rooms are located within small environments, thus drying yourself properly within the bathroom or showering area is a substantial challenge. My clients have been known to walk from their bathrooms to their bedrooms soaking wet and towel dry in their bedrooms, or having to ask their family member or carer to assist them. The dryer prevents this happening owing to its slick design and space saving style it can be fitted within even the smallest of cubicles enabling you to be dried quickly and efficiently and most importantly independently.

The dryer uses above room temperature warm air to dry the individual and is cost effective and environmentally friendly. The dryers also come with a three year guarantee, thus peace of mind comes as standard.

I always discuss the body dryer with my clients looking at how the dryer could maximise the time a carer has with the client if a care package is in situ. Time is precious and an essential daily activity like washing should not be a chore. This dryer could within the right facility provide the assistance you've always needed eliminating the need for other aids or hands on assistance.”
